Internship Gives Students More HOPE

A few hours of business education each week is arming a group of English High School students with the tools to succeed in today's ultra-competitive world of work.

Hancock On Premises Education, or HOPE, was developed last year by John Hancock/English High Partnership Coordinator Martin Montgomery to help combat the increasing lack of basic business skills found in public high school students applying for employment.

"With the continuing budget constraints of the public school system, fewer and fewer students have access to the business classes that may help them prepare for college or the work force upon graduation," Martin says.

The HOPE program consists of three phases. Fifteen Phase I students attend business classes, taught by Human Resources Training Consultant Linda Favuzza and English High School Teacher Ed McNabb, two days a week during the school year. Classroom instruction goes beyond the teaching of classic business skills like accounting, keyboarding and word processing to include discussions on appropriate business dress, attitude, career awareness and self-confidence. Students who successfully complete HOPE Phase I are guaranteed summer employment at Hancock.

"Last year's Phase I students really learned how to navigate the corporate system," Martin says.

Deep in concentration, second-year HOPE students Michelle Ashley (seated, left) and Ivette Arias (right) use their HOPE skills in their after-school internships in Hancock's Group Market Research and Planning unit. Their supervisor, Research Assistant Christine Cassell, offers some pointers and Hancock/English High Partnership Coordinator Martin Montgomery looks on.

... As a consequence of my learning experience with the Japanese culture, I have amended my judgment of other cultures and simultaneously extracted negative prejudices from my mind. Because every culture differs from one another, one must try to understand the traditions and respect cultural values. Subsequently, I believe that if the stereotype associated to one culture can be refuted, it is logical to support the fact that all stereotypes are wrong ...

THE ENGLISH HIGH SCHOOL
Founded 1821

SYDNEY W. SMITH
Headmaster

Dear Seniors,

It's with great pride, and some sadness, that I bid you farewell from English High School. Over the course of the past four years, you've enriched my life tremendously, and I'm proud to have had the opportunity to share these years with you.

The past four years have been filled with a full range of emotions. While there was plenty of joy, there was also more than a small dose of pain and suffering, as each of you struggled to earn your diploma. You've reached a significant point in your lives, and you should be proud of all you've accomplished.

On the other hand, you have challenges ahead of you, unlike any you've yet to encounter. Whether you're going to college or into the workforce, you'll be asked to rise to the occasion, time and time again. Keep your eyes on the prize, attack those challenges with the same commitment and confidence that's carried you through the past four years, and you'll be fine.

On behalf of all the staff, I'd like to wish you the very best always. Never forget where you came from, and always make us proud. Go with pride; go with respect; and go with determination. We'll miss you!

Sincerely,

Sidney W. Smith

MR. SMITH,

The English High School Alma Mater

Alma Mater, tried and true,
English High, our English High;
Oft our Hearts shall turn to you;
English high, our English High;
Should e'er the laurel wreath be main,
I'll lay the honor at they shrine,
Our hearts, our hopes our prayers
are thine,
English High, our English High

We may come and we may go,
English High, our English High;
Yet in deep and peaceful flow,
English High, our English High;
Shall thy stream of learning wide,
Through the ages grandly glide,
Ever to thy sons and daughters
pride,
English High, our English High.

Message From The Class President

Tom Dennehy

As the President of the Senior Class of 1991, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate my fellow classmates. We have, at last, reached the final destination of our four year journey. Graduation! Throughout our passage we have experienced turbulence, severe storms and other obstacles that prevent smooth sailing. We now cast anchor and stand ready to come ashore. Let us utilize all we have learned and accomplished over the past four years as we embark on an even bigger voyage than the one we have just completed.

We have accomplished much academically, socially, and in athletics, in the midst of difficult circumstances. We know life is tougher in the city, and so is learning. The odds always seemed stacked against us and politics played too major a role. An "inner-city" school is subject to much criticism, and our class should be applauded for the way we have dealt with it. We have time and again adapted and improvised. We are soldiers fighting the power and have just won a major battle.

As we commence, let us keep in mind what we have achieved, and have now acquired: the prestige and tradition of the English High Alumni. Thanks to the dedication of the faculty and Mr. Smith, as well as their leadership, tutelage, and navigation, we are ready to set sail as men and women of Honor and Achievement. I would like to thank the class for my Presidency, and say I love you and will miss you all. Good-luck and Bon-Voyage.
